

conditions through the public employment service and by other means in order to make, a good faith test of U.S. worker availability.

