

“The growing need for immigration legal services is fueled by the global economy, competition for professional workers, greater complexity in compliance issues and the demand for more assistance and legal analysis of immigration issues,” said Charles C. Foster, director of the immigration section of Tindall & Foster and co-chairman of the new firm. “Foster Quan brings together one of the most experienced teams of highly skilled attorneys capable of addressing current and future immigration legal issues.”

Foster Quan will maintain all six of the firm's current offices including both Houston locations and offices in Austin, San Antonio, the Rio Grande Valley and Mexico City. The blended firm can serve clients in 33 languages and has 13 attorneys board certified in immigration and nationality law by the Texas Board of Legal Specialization, more than any other firm.

Tindall & Foster was founded in 1973 by Foster, who has been listed as Texas' top immigration lawyer by both Texas Lawyer and Chambers USA – America's Leading Lawyers for Business. The firm pioneered and patented a process used for reducing Form I-9 liability and ensuring immigration employment compliance in the U.S. In addition, Tindall & Foster is internationally recognized for its specialty in outbound immigration, obtaining foreign work authorization and residency for businesses seeking to transfer personnel from the U.S. to overseas assignments.

Founded in 1980, Quan, Burdette & Perez was recently named as the top immigration firm in Texas for the third consecutive year by Chambers U.S.A. – America's Leading Lawyers for Business. The firm's prestigious litigation section recently won a landmark decision before the U.S. Supreme Court, Dada v. Mukasey (No. 06-1181), that was cited as this term's most important Supreme Court case on immigration.

As the nation's second largest immigration law firm, Foster Quan plans to take an active role in the national debate on U.S. immigration policies.
